

"For me the best part of being a hubster is understanding the business of public speaking, how it works and how can I become more professional in it. Thank you for your work"

"Having had the opportunity to present my keynote in a safe space for feedback, prior to major showcases was a huge benefit. In addition to Nick's masterful observations (you like that one Nick? ), I really appreciate the feedback from the smart group of people that have been curated for the HUB. This provides a fulfilling social learning experience."

"Nick Morgan's unrivaled presence in the world of communication and speaking enables him to access the best minds and most influential players. He brings this deep expertise to the PW Hub, where these luminaries guide, advise, and demystify the world of professional speaking."

"Having had the opportunity to present my keynote in a safe space for feedback, prior to major showcases was a huge benefit. In addition to Nick's masterful observations (you like that one Nick? ), I really appreciate the feedback from the smart group of people that have been curated for the HUB. This provides a fulfilling social learning experience. Nick Morgan's unrivaled presence in the world of communication and speaking enables him to access the best minds and most influential players. He brings this deep expertise to the PW Hub, where these luminaries guide, advise, and demystify the world of professional speaking."

Our first year as a network was one of experimentation, growth, and lots of great cross-pollination. We heard from speaker bureau leaders, other speaker coaches, legendary speakers, experts on TEDx, and speaker managers. We heard talks from members and gave feedback to each other on our marketing approaches, our storytelling, our branding, and our keynotes in general. We learned about primals and body language, framing and action steps. Most of all, we networked with each other and helped each other open doors to the business of public speaking. The feedback from members was uniformly positive, and we are launched already in Year Two with more experts, more inside knowledge, more connections, and more networking!

"I love the connection to fellow speakers in the PW Hub.

Getting to know and understand their struggles and triumphs has helped me raise my own game and feel less alone in an industry that can often be so isolating."

"I've found getting access to the insights of the experts you bring to us incredibly valuable. Being able to ask them anything and hear what others ask has been helpful. Totally worth the 3am alarm for!"